The Art of Feeling is a week-long experiential training course designed for youth workers and educators who want to explore the emotional dimension of learning and human connection. Through creative, reflective, and nature-based activities, participants will embark on a journey from self-awareness to empathy, strengthening both intrapersonal and interpersonal competences.

In today’s fast-paced and hyper-connected world, we often forget one of our most essential human needs: to feel, to connect, and to understand ourselves and others. This training invites participants to slow down, breathe, and rediscover emotional literacy as a foundation for wellbeing, healthy communication, and authentic relationships.

Throughout the week, the group will engage in dynamic sessions such as “The Amazing Island”, “My body Flows”, “Mirror Exercise”, and “The Compassionate Mind”, combining movement, storytelling, non-violent communication, creative expression, and mindful reflection.

Main objectives:

- To identify and recognise emotions in oneself and others.
- To strengthen self-esteem and self-identity as a basis for personal balance.
- To communicate and express emotions assertively.
- To develop empathy and emotional regulation in social interactions.
- To use emotional awareness as a tool for conflict transformation and wellbeing.
